

News | Audio | "Dom i svijet" | Tourism | HIC TV | Advertisements | Books | Croats out of Homeland | Links | Marketing | About Us

news

Vlado Franjević to read poems in Martinac

Martinac in Bjelovar-Bilogorje County is where well-known Croatian artist and author Vlado Franjević, who lives in the Principality of Liechtenstein, was born.

After Mass at St. Martin's Chapel on 11 November, St. Martin's feast day, Franjević will read poems from a new book published with the support of Cazma's Culture Centre and its chief Jadranka Kruljac-Sever.

The book's title is "Vlado Franjević's Improvisation - Rajka Poljak's Interpretation," and it means the book features Franjević's poems and Poljak's text. Poljak is also the co-author of the Encyclopedia "Croats in the World".

On 14 November, Franjević will read his poems in the Cazma public library after Damir Posa's concert.

The next day, at Zagreb book fair "Interliber", Franjević will receive a prize for his poetry.

Franjević is one of 44 artists featured in the book "Almanac of Contemporary Fine Art 2008, Liechtenstein," which was published by the Association of Liechtenstein Professional Fine Artists BBKL.LI. C.T.

News | Audio | "Dom i svijet" | Tourism | HIC TV | Advertisements | Books | Croats out of Homeland | Links | Marketing | About Us

Copyright 1999 - 2001 Croatian Information Centre. All rights reserved.
 Included in this bulletin: Reproduction or copying of images is prohibited.
 Croatian Information Centre - Service Agreements
 Contact Croatian Information Centre