Betreff: Invitation to exhibition of figurative painting

Hello again

Yes, it has been a busy exhibition year already and here is one more you are warmly invited to.

At this exhibition of figurative art I'll be showing a few paintings ranging from fresh ones to a piece from 2016 (which in terms of my practice feels like a small lifetime ago). Our opening is coming Wednesday 11th April from 6.30pm at the Burgh House. It would be a pleasure to welcome you there.

For general opening times please read below.

I will also be at the gallery on Sunday 15th April from 1-5pm.

RSVP for the opening to privateview@ecclestoneartagency.com

All the best
Jess

DIVERSE FIGURES

Organised and curated by Ecclestone Art Agency

Opening: Wednesday, 11th April 6.30- 8.30pm

Exhibition runs 11th-15th April 2018.

Peggy Jay Gallery, Burgh House, New End Square,
London NW3 1LT (tube: Hampstead)

Open from 12-5pm. Closed on Saturday.

Over the centuries the Human Form as depicted through visual art has served many purposes: it has been a means of cultural expression or identification, a way to illustrate a narrative or communicate human experiences and, of course, to celebrate or commentate on the aesthetic quality of the human body. In this exhibition five artists present us with paintings that cover many aspects of depicting the human form. They capture emotion, narrative, beauty, sexuality and ultimately the social, global, intimate and personal ways in which we are viewed.

Burgh House and Hampstead Museum
